Overview

The Western Ramganga is a spring fed river arising some 200kms North of Corbett Tiger Reserve at Dudhatoli in the Himalayan foothills. It is fishable throughout the year since it is not subject to snowmelt in the spring. The waters remain clear through most of the year except in the rains from June-end to early September. The fish that the angler is likely to encounter are Golden Mahseer, Goonch, Indian trout and the very shy Kalbanse.

Mahseer weighing 60lb have been caught in the recent past, Goonch run massive - at the right time it is possible to land a 100 lbs, 20-30 being average. The Indian trout is rare and a good size would be 10 inches.

Taster of the Ramganga

This somewhat short fishing holiday with obvious focus on the undisputed lord of Himalayan Rivers the Golden Mahseer. Undeniably, the Mahseer is one of the fiercest fighting freshwater game fish that exists. Pound for pound it has unparalleled strength and endurance. They do have a transitory likeness to the carp and the barbell of the English waters, but as they say, the similarity soon ends in the turbid waters of the Himalayan foothills. Mahseer have overjoyed generations of anglers and time after time lived up to being called the "Mighty Mahseer."

And what better way to fish than to be based in perhaps one of India's most remotely located jungle lodges – Vanghat, nestled deep in the awe inspiring Ramganga valley and surrounded by hills and the wildlife rich forest of Corbett Tiger Reserve far from any human habitation on the banks of the Ramganga - the lifeline of Kalagarh (division) of Corbett Tiger Reserve.

Operational Itinerary

DAY 01:

Activity

Arrive Vanghat

Detail

Arrive Marchula, meet our representative and hike to Vanghat. The walk through the scrub forest and the sleepy village of Baluli is an excellent introduction to the wildlife rich Ramganga valley, and can prove to be the most personally satisfying way of reaching the Lodge. At the end of the trail a bamboo raft ferries guests across to remote Vanghat. (Average fitness and good walking shoes are however vital). One porter per person is provided.

From mid-February however you get an option of hiring a 4 X 4 Gypsy which can drive you to lodge fording you across the Ramganga several times.

Post lunch briefing by Gillie. Unpack rods and other gear.

In the evening while sipping a drink and savouring hot snacks and soup discuss your next day's strategy.

DAY 02 & 03:

Stay & Activity

Vanghat – Fishing

Detail

After an early cup of tea we head upstream on our 4 X 4 Gypsy upstream to Bandran near Marchula.

Today we fish the upstream beat at Marchula once the most popular fishing spot. This stretch with promising rapids and massive pool is home to massive Mahseer and Goonch and has featured in the ‘River Monster’ series anchored by Jermy Wade. Packed picnic meals and a camping mattress will be provided.

Return back to camp before it gets dark. We always have to keep in mind that this is Elephant & Tiger Country.
